

Comedian Actor Writer

Rubbyn Warren

Who Is Rubyn Warren?

Rubyn Warren was born in Portland, Oregon, and knew early on that comedy was his path. At 14, he was already commanding attention with his sharp wit and effortless stage presence. But making people laugh wasn't just a hobby—it was the only plan.

Determined to go all in, Rubyn left a stable job at the Atlanta airport and moved to Los Angeles, where he committed himself fully to the grind of stand-up. That risk turned into results. He's been featured on TruTV, FOX, and BET, proving his ability to connect with audiences on every platform. His writing has brought laughs to Netflix and Comedy Central, solidifying his voice both on stage and behind the scenes.

A regular at The Laugh Factory, The Comedy Store, and The Improv, Rubyn continues to sharpen his craft, turning real-life experiences into punchlines that hit every time. He's not just in comedy—he's built for it.

Career Highlights

1. Wrote jokes for Jingle Jangle (NETFLIX)—because Christmas needed more laughs.
2. Put in work on Hood Adjacent (COMEDY CENTRAL)—kept it funny and real.
3. Dropped gems on The Experiment (BET★)—because science and comedy go hand in hand... kinda.
4. Made folks laugh on Laughs (FOX)—yes, I was on TV, and yes, my mama recorded it.
5. Showed out on Laugh Tracks (tru®)—they acted it out, but the funny was all me.
6. Been killin' stages at THE COMEDY STORE, IMPROV, and The Laugh—if there's a mic, I'm on it.
